a note from DAVID

Memorial Day gives us pause to remember the men and women who gave their lives in military service. Many were only in their teens or twenties, yet they paid the ultimate price for the freedoms we enjoy today. What a costly sacrifice. What deep grief endured by parents, spouses, children, and friends.

We are grateful for those currently serving around the world—men and women who undertake difficult and dangerous duties for the good of others, knowing that it may cost them their lives. We pray for them and honor their courage and selflessness.

As Christians, we believe that war will not last forever. Isaiah foretold a day when "nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore" (Isa. 2:4). That day was secured by Christ's death on the cross. He dealt with sin and triumphed over evil and death. And when He comes in the glory of His eternal kingdom, justice, righteousness, and peace will reign at last. We long for that Day. Come, Lord Jesus!
